

HIGH FIVE

Editor Jan Masters reveals her top five beauty treats for September

1 I've become a real fan of 111Skin Celestial Black Diamond Retinol Oil. It has a super-smooth consistency and with its 1 per cent retinol, an ingredient recognised for its ability to even out skin texture and tone, it has a noticeable effect on my complexion. It also includes a generous sprinkling of rare black diamond particles, which help transport key actives in the oil into the skin. They must be doing something, because whenever I use this, I wake up looking more refreshed with a lot more sparkle. 30ml, £150; exclusive to Harrods

3 I was with Charlotte Tilbury when we were working on our cover shoot, and it was sheer joy to have this amazing make-up artist give me personal advice – and furnish me with samples to try. There are too many products worthy of gushing about to mention here, but her eyeliner pen, The Feline Flick, is a must. The flexible felt-tip nib glides over the eyelid, and the pen has the right balance of pigment and fluidity for a one-stroke high-impact finish. Thank you, Charlotte. £22

4 Prevention, maintenance and correction. For Dr Imber, these are the key tenets of younger-looking skin, which is why the plastic surgeon has developed a step-by-step skincare range that makes following his credo simple. I particularly love Youth Corridor's Ultimate Antioxidant C Boost Serum. Vitamin-enriched, it's a perfect tonic for tired skin. 35ml, £200; exclusive to Harrods

2 There's a constant in Sensai's products, and that's the inclusion of koishimaru silk. Now, the brand is launching its first fragrance – Sensai the Silk – inspired by the Japanese tradition of infusing garments with scent. It's a sensual swathe of soft florals and fruit, underscored by a comforting blend of tonka beans and musk. For the eau de parfum, Sensai brings the warmer nuances into focus, while the eau de toilette is all about shimmering florals. Decisions, decisions. 50ml, £100; exclusive to Harrods

5 First came the nail polish housed in a tall, slender bottle that echoed the shape of the heel of a Christian Louboutin stiletto. Now, the brand has launched a range of lipsticks in the form of opulent pendants that might hail from an Arabian treasure house – 38 shades, separated into satin, voile and matte finishes. But the star of the show has to be the Rouge Louboutin, a rich garnet colour that reflects the house's signature red sole. £60

Available from The Beauty Apothecary and The Cosmetics Hall, Ground Floor